Falcons, There are some of you out there who have a keen eye when it comes to examining the world critically. Others of you will work hard and build that insight over time. Whether you already have it or are still working toward it, this word of the week is for you: Perspicacity. Perspicacity is the ability to understand things quickly and to make accurate judgments based on surroundings and the information provided, it is insight and shrewdness. Here it is in a sentence: Deputy Gilbert's reputation for perspicacity was well earned. Those who listened to his advice almost always succeeded. See the display case near the main office for more information about our word of the week.

Today, we pause to remember the events of September 11, 2001. On this day, 24 years ago, nearly 3,000 lives were lost, and countless others were forever changed. Let us honor the courage of first responders, the resilience of survivors, and the unity our nation showed in the face of tragedy. Please take a moment of silence to reflect on the importance of this event in shaping our country and what it means to be a unified America. (pause for 5 seconds before signing off).
